WOODWARD'S SERIES OF AUCTION SALES.

Sale 86. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23. AN ARCHAEOLOGICAL AND ETHNOLOGICAL COLLECTION.—This collection, of a somewhat diverse character, is from numerous sources: first, a collection consigned by a New York dealer, comprising a great variety of Spear and Arrow Points, mostly from Ohio, carefully and artistically arranged on cards; the duplicates from an Eastern Institution consisting almost wholly of objects from various localities in New England. A large collection of Flint Cores and Knives, Spear Heads, Arrow Points, etc., mostly from Flint Ridge, Ohio, consigned by a scientific institution in Washington. Many objects from lower California; an Olla of great size, and perfect; several of the choice mortars such as may be seen at the National Museum; cooking vessel of pot stone; carvings in soapstone and other materials; and various objects in stone, bone and shell, found at Los Angeles and its vicinity. A small but fine collection comprising a number of remarkable objects from Cherokee County, Georgia, with Celts, Gouges, Semi-lunar Knives, Spear Heads, Arrow Heads, &c., in true flint and in granite, from Scandinavia and Great Britain.

It was my intention to exhibit at this Sale a collection of fraudulent objects purchased in Cincinnati, claimed by the dealer to be genuine, and so declared to be now, contrary to the expressed belief of American archaeologists and experts.

Collectors will be interested in knowing that the boss archaeological fraud of Philadelphia recently visited New York, and succeeded in unloading his vile collection on an innocent purchaser, at large prices. I have examined them with great care, and declare that they are not worth one cent each,—indeed, their fraudulent character is so marked that they are worse than worthless. A few of these pieces I shall endeavor to show at the Sale, as well as the Cincinnati frauds referred to.

Sale 87. MINERALS.—This Sale will consist of the principal and best portion of the Mineralogical Museum of Mr. G. A. Wettstein, late of Negannee, Mich., and now of Chicago. These minerals are mostly of the copper region of Lake Superior; the Sale will comprise also the immense selected stock of the Jasperized Wood & Mineral Co. of New York. This stock is now on exhibition at the Auction Rooms of Messrs. Bangs & Co., where it is now offered in large sections at private sale; but if not thus sold, will be offered as above in the latter part of June, or immediately after Sale 86.

Sale 88. AMERICAN AND ROMAN COINS.

Catalogues nearly ready.
